GALLOWES DEMAND MADE BY STATE

Extreme Penalty to be Sought As
Punishment for Slaying of 14-
Year-Old Franks Boy

OPENING STATEMENT MADE

For Three Months Loeb and Leopold
Planned Crime, State's Attorney
Crowe Asserts

(By United Press)

Criminal Court, Chicago, Ill., July 23—A dramatic plea for hanging was made today by State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe, as he concluded a bitter arraignment of Nathan Leopold and Robert Loeb for the slaying of Robert Franks, a school boy.

Crowe, speaking with anger, briefly described the killing as one of the most atrocious crimes in the history of Chicago, and in the name of the people and state demanded a sentence of death.

Attorney Clarence Darrow for the defense sprang to his feet as Crowe concluded and took issue with the characterization of the killing as "atrocious." The attorneys started a sharp wrangle and were halted by Chief Justice Carverly, who ordered Darrow to make a plain statement and for Crowe to keep the peace.

"These boys," Darrow explained, "have committed a murder and we of the defense have admitted the crime in all its terrible details. The boys themselves have confessed killing Robert Franks and have come before the bar of justice and thrown their fate upon the mercy of the court."

"But your honor, this murder was not the atrocious, terrible, brutal, dastardly crime that the state's attorney so bitterly pictured.

"The state's attorney has exaggerated and played upon the details of the crime and the subsequent confessions so as to appeal and stir up bitter emotion in the public mind.

"Such statements as those delivered by the state's attorney were unlawful. He had no business to make at this time the charges against these boys. It would not surprise me if other and more terrible crimes even might result from such statements.

"The defense in the case," Darrow said, "is making no effort to acquit these murderers. We will try to show in our evidence that these boys are victims of certain influences which make them in a degree at least not responsible for the crime they committed.

"We ask only that this court show leniency to these defendants and believe that your honor will appreciate that two mature men could never have committed this murder.

"Understanding their youth and their simple plans of guilt we believe the court will not sentence them to hang by the neck until dead."

Leopold and Loeb squirming under the fire of Crowe's charges, regained their composure as Darrow made a brief outline of the defense's case.

They whispered to each other as Jacob Franks, father of the victim, took the stand. Franks keeping his eyes from the slayers of his son testified perfunctorily, identifying articles of apparel worn by Robert. Speaking in a low voice and showing little emotion, Franks identified a photograph of his son. The ran-

Boating and bathing were enjoyed during the day and a picnic dinner was served. The Rushville company had the largest delegation present.

CHECK CHARGE DISMISSED

Affidavit Against Harry Schmalzel is
Thrown Out of Court

The case of the state against Harry Schmalzel of this city, who was charged with issuing a fraudulent check in Connersville, has been dismissed in the Fayette circuit court on motion of the prosecuting attorney, according to the Connersville News-Examiner.

The Connersville newspaper says it understands that an adjustment of the matter was made outside of court some time ago, which resulted in the motion to dismiss at this time.

The check was for a very small amount and surprise was expressed by Schmalzel's friends here when the charge was filed and pressed by the prosecuting witness.

FARMERS PROFIT FROM ADVANCES

Increases in Prices of Hogs, Cattle,
Wheat and Corn Means Thousands of Dollars in County

HOGS WEARING $10.00 TODAY

Many Farmers Who Were Pessimistic
a Month Ago, Are Now Confident
of the Future

Farmers of Rush county have profited thousands of dollars this month on account of the increase in the price of hogs, cattle, wheat and corn, and many farmers who were pessimistic a month ago, today are smiling and confident of the future.

The increase of fifty cents in the price of hogs today further served to strengthen the backbone of Rush county farmers. Wheat closed in a slight slump Tuesday evening, but rallied this morning and was selling for $1.12 at local elevators. Chicago board of trade prices at the close Tuesday was $1.25 and this morning they were back up to $1.27.

Predictions of optimists a few weeks ago, that $10.00 hogs and $1.35 wheat were not far distant, which were launched at, are coming true and those who ridiculed the idea then have been willing to admit that they were mistaken.

The incident is told of a Rush county land owner whose tenant literally threw up his hands about a month ago and said that he was broke and could not make it. The land owner said he would see him through and he has been paying the bills. Today the tenant is able to get credit and is paying his own bills, because he is a few thousand dollars better off than he was a month ago, on account of the rise in prices.

Figured on the basis of seven and a half cents as the average price for hogs last year, the rise in the price of hogs this month, which has amounted to two and a fourth cents a pound, the increase has meant over $6,000 in the pockets of Rush county farmers in the past twenty-three days.

Conservative estimates place Rush county hog production at 200,000 a year. With hogs averaging 220 pounds when they are marketed, Rush county farmers sell 44,000,000 pounds of hogs annually. An average increase of two and a fourth cents a pound for the year would increase the revenue of Rush county farmers $990,000. This is an average daily increase of $271.33, or a total of $8,000 more for July than if the price of hogs had averaged the same as last year.

On the first of July hogs were selling at $7.35. The prices since that date, which show the gradual increase, are as follows:

July 2, $7.40; July 3, $7.60; (no market quotations the 4th, 5th and 6th); July 7, $7.50; July 8, $7.50; July 9, $7.60; July 10, $7.65; July 11, $7.70; July 12, $7.65; July 14, $7.65; July 15, $7.85; July 16, $7.90; July 17, $8.10; July 18, $8.15; July 19, $8.50; July 21, $8.75; July 22, $9.25; July 23, $9.75.

Reports of good wheat yields continue to come in. A field on the Alva Newhouse farm in Jackson township averaged 27 bushels to the acre. One on the Riley Coulter farm, in Anderson township, last week averaged 28 bushels to the acre.

The Rush county wheat crop will sell for several thousand dollars.

SPIRITED AWAY TO DODGE A LYNCHING

Three Negroes, Suspected as Slayers of Village Ridge, Ill., Girl,
Taken to Menard, Ill.

GUARDSMEN AT MOUND CITY

(By United Press)

Murphysboro, Ill., July 23—Three negroes arrested as suspects in the murder of Daisy Wilson, 18 year old girl of Villa Ridge, Pulaski county, today were rushed to Menard, Illinois, by Sheriff L. N. Hudson, who escaped Mound City, near the scene of the slaying, to dodge a lynching.

Two attempts during yesterday were frustrated, one by the pleas of a Klan organizer and the other by rushing the prisoners from Mounds, six miles from Villa Ridge, to Mound City, seat of Pulaski county.

Late last night a mob gathered around the jail in Mound City and refused to disperse even upon threat of calling out state troops.

Springfield, Ill., July 23—"The situation at Mound City is entirely under control," Colonel Frank L. Taylor, speaking for Governor Len Small, declared today.

Company K, one hundred and thirty-fourth infantry, Cairo, Ill., rushed in trucks to the scene of disorder early this morning are stationed at Mound City where three negroes were threatened with lynching.

SHADOW OF POINCARÉ HOVERS OVER CONFAB

Grave Possibility of Another Failure to Settle Reparations Tangle
Seen Today

SITUATION STILL CRITICAL

(By United Press)

London, July 23—The shadow of ex-Premier Poincaré hovered over the allied conference as the plenary session was convened at 3 p. m. today, with grave possibility another of the efforts to settle the German reparations question may end in failure.

It was admitted the situation still is critical as the allied representatives gathered for the public meeting, but delegates continued to do their utmost to harmonize the divergent French and Anglo-American viewpoints hoping for a lasting decision instead of a precarious compromise.

Premier Herriot is afraid to go too far in making concessions for fear of the attacks of ex-Premier Poincaré at home. The bankers cannot go back on what they consider necessary guarantees without endangering the proposed $200,000,000 loan to Germany.

The French want a lien on sanctions, with France assured of something from Germany no matter what happens; the bankers insist upon adequate guarantees for the loan and do not want Germany to be too hastily declared in default.

The principal argument, therefore, has been over who shall decide when Germany is in default.

MANY WITNESS TRUCK EXHIBITION

Aerial Apparatus Hoisted in Front of The Maury Co. Building to Show How it Operates

SCHEDULED FOR AFTERNOON

Demonstration Changed so That Exhibition Could be Given in Indianapolis This Afternoon

Many people were on hand this morning to witness the demonstration of the aerial fire truck, although the performance was not scheduled until this afternoon, and others were disappointed who came down town later in the day to inspect the new apparatus.

The truck was built at Cincinnati and is being delivered to Kokomo, and while enroute, it was displayed at Connersville, Rushville and Indianapolis. On account of the change in the plans, the truck was demonstrated here this morning and left for Indianapolis so that it could reach its destination tonight.

The large aerial truck was handled conveniently in making the turns about the city, and it was driven over several of the streets this morning. It stopped in front of the Maury Company building a four story structure, and the large ladder was hoisted easily to the top, with enough of the ladder left to reach two more stories.

The truck also carries other ladder equipment for use in residential districts, where the water tower is not needed. The demonstration was interesting, and gave people of Rushville an opportunity of seeing a piece of fire fighting apparatus in action that is seldom seen in cities of this size.

The truck was accompanied by several drivers from the factory, including John P. Ahrens, vice president of the Ahrens-Fox company, fire chief Lee of Kokomo, fire chief Gregg and assistant fire chief Root of Connersville.

REFUSES TO LET TROOPS SET CARL MAGEE FREE

Governor James Hinkle of New Mexico Denies Request to Give Editor
Freedom

SENTENCED AND PARDONED

Las Vegas, N. M., July 23—Governor James Hinkle today refused to order national guard troops to free Carl Magee, editor of the New Mexico Tribune, in jail at Las Vegas for contempt of court, as requested by Adjutant General Skipwith.

The governor said the case must now go to the Supreme court to be decided, but indicated he would arrange to release Magee on bond pending action of the higher court.

Magee was sentenced yesterday and the governor issued a pardon which Sheriff Delgado refused to recognize, holding the governor could not pardon for direct contempt of court. As a result Magee spent the night in jail. The Supreme court will be asked to rule upon the question of whether the governor may pardon in cases of direct contempt.

The governor gave the pardon to Adjutant General Skipwith who presented it to Sheriff Delgado. When the sheriff refused to honor release order, Skipwith appealed to the right to use troops to force Magee's release.

SEXTETTE HERE FIRST SUNDAY

Organization of Musicians, Coming to Chautauqua, Regarded as "Master
Attraction"

IS COMPOSED OF SIX MEN

Play String and Wind Instruments
and Programs Consist of Works of
The Masters

One of the best musical attractions for the Rush County Chautauqua, which will be held here August 19 to 17, will be on the first Sunday, August 10, with the appearance of the Chautauqua Sextette.

This is a purely instrumental organization, and while the program committee this year did not deem it advisable to bring a band here, they devoted much time in making up for it, by obtaining several high class musical programs.

The Chautauqua Sextette is called "A Master Attraction" by the Evcon bureau that has charge of their bookings, and they obtain their name from the fact that the sextette renders programs from the music of the Masters.

The musical organization consists of men, all of whom play string instruments, as well as horns. They appear here in the afternoon and night on Sunday, August 10, and will no doubt prove to be a popular musical organization with the local assembly-goers.

Myron Witepski, whose musician-ship has been proven in his own work upon the chautauqua platform, guarantees this company to be one of the finest. It has been selected from among the very best orchestral players of Chicago. Every member has had abundant experience and is a master of his instrument.

The programs have been arranged with rare skill in order to thoroughly satisfy the music lovers of the community and interest every member of their audiences.

In addition to the regular orchestral numbers, one of the members of the company is a master of the Xylophone, which adds greatly to the attractiveness of their program.

Two representatives of the Coit-Alber Company listened to the Sextette in their regular programs during the past summer and followed their reports through the season and decided that the Chautauqua Sextette was fully worthy to be numbered among the "Master Attractions" of the Coit-Alber list.

The program of the splendid sextette will prove to be among the most satisfying events of the coming season.

Leopold and Loeb Pleading Guilty

Here are Nathan F. Leopold Jr. (left) and Richard Loeb, 19-year-old sons of millionaires, at the bar in Chief Justice John R. Caverly's court, pleading guilty to the kidnapping and murder of 14-year-old Robert Franks. Both of the youthful "intellectuals" were dressed fastidiously as they came into court. And both outwardly were calm as they walked to the bench. Leopold, however, is gazing downward, but Loeb is looking straight at the judge. The strain, though, is noticeable in the faces of both.

GALLOWES DEMAND MADE BY STATE

son letter demanding $10,000 sent by Loeb and Leopold, was presented to Franks. He identified it as the one he received. Then piece by piece the apparel worn by Robert at the time of his disappearance was held before the aged man.

"Yes that was worn by Robert," he whispered nodding and pointing to a bedraggled shirt. "Yes, Robert wore that," he said as a pair of trousers was held up. A coat, stockings, shoes, a belt and other articles were shown him.

Franks was in complete control of himself and never once did he falter as pieces of clothing were held out for his identification.

"The state intends to present the evidence and at the conclusion to ask that the extreme penalty be imposed upon these defendants," Crowe cried in outlining the state's case.

"During the months of November, December and January these defendants planned and schemed this terrible crime, hoping they never would be brought to the bar of justice," Crowe said.

Crowe said he would show that Leopold and Loeb "practiced throwing a bundle from a moving Michigan Central train, planning to have Robert Franks' father board the same train and throw off a bundle of $10,000 cash—their ransom for kidnapping of young Franks."

Crowe announced that the state would prove that Loeb and Leopold registered at a downtown hotel and under assumed names—a plan intended to hide their identity and aid their escape. He said the prosecution would show how the young murderers rented an automobile from the Rent-a-Car Company—the automobile in which Robert Franks was kidnapped and slain.

Crowe spoke easily and deliberately, folding his arms and occasionally striking the palm of his hand with his fist for emphasis. The courtroom, filled to every nook and corner was silent.

Leopold, sitting at the attorney's table looked off into space, occasionally glancing toward Crowe. Young Loeb seemed more interested, crossing his legs and gazing steadily at the state's attorney.

Crowe told how the young slayers went to Peoria, Ill., registered at a hotel and attempted to establish themselves as prosperous business men.

At this point Benjamin Bachrach turned and whispered to Loeb's ear. Loeb nodded and passed some word along to Leopold, who also nodded, smiled a bit wistfully, then turned away.

Crowe then called for the original copy of the $10,000 ransom letter sent to Jacob Franks, the slain boy's father, shortly after the murder. Leopold, for the first time, appeared interested.

This letter, couched in flawless English and perfectly punctuated, was one of his prides.

The letter warned Franks that his son might be injured or killed unless he delivered the $10,000 according to instructions. The letter was signed "George Johnson."

Crowe said the letter had been written long before the murderers decided upon their victim. Not until after young Franks was killed did they address the letter to Franks.

They had to consult a telephone directory to find the Franks address. This, Crowe argued, showed the cold blooded nature of the crime. They longed to kill—they cared not who their victim was, the state's attorney said. It was only by chance, Crowe said, that they well upon the Franks boy.

"The evidence will show that the boys went to the Leopold home, where they obtained a can of ether which Leopold used in etherizing birds," Crowe said. "They secured tape and gags and set out in the rented automobile, stopped at a drug store and bought acid which they intended to use in burning away the features of their little victim."

Only because John Levinson, another small millionaire's son, hurried home through an alley instead of following the sidewalk was this boy saved from the fate that befell Robert Franks," Crowe declared.

Leopold and Loeb, according to Crowe, drove their automobile to the Harvard private school, stopping a few hundred feet from the playground, in order to avoid suspicion.

They watched a score of boys playing ball and argued between themselves as to which one they should kidnap and murder. They decided upon young Levinson, but when they missed him they decided that the Franks boy would be their victim. They took notice of the fact that Robert's father was a millionaire, Crowe said, and therefore would be willing to pay the ransom.

"Seeing Robert Franks swinging gaily along a sunlit street these two defendants drove alongside of him and invited the little youngster to get in for a ride," Crowe said.

"While one of the boys drove, the other leaned over from the rear seat and struck that innocent child with the head with a tape-bound chisel. The boy was pulled into the back seat and covered with blankets."

INDIANA WOMAN, 114, OLDEST IN UNITED STATES

Worthington, Ind., July 23—Relatives of Mrs. Kitty Doan-Hayden, who celebrated her 114th birthday recently believe she is the oldest woman in the United States.

Mrs. Hayden, having been a Methodist all her life is opposed to dancing and bobbed hair.

Despite her opposition to tobacco, Mrs. Hayden used to use it her self. According to a niece Mrs. R. E. Eaton of Linton, Mrs. Eaton was advised to use tobacco when a girl by a doctor who thought she had tuberculosis. She was a smoker until one day her brother hid her pipe. She hasn't smoked since.

Born of farmer parentage in Salt Works, Smith county Virginia July 17, 1810, Mrs. Hayden received her early education working on her father's farm. There were no schools. She sawed logs, cut rails, and worked in the harvest fields until she was 21, when she married Richard Hayden. It had been incumbent on her to work on the farm to help her father pay for it.

With another newly married couple the Haydens came to Indiana, ninety-three years ago. The couple settled at Point Commerce, Ind., now Worthington. There were only a few scattered houses there. A tavern and store were built soon after.

Mrs. Hayden was the mother of eight children, four of whom are still living. Two of the living are boys and two girls. The oldest is 79 and the youngest 59. Her husband who was a member of the 97th Indiana Volunteers in the Civil War died in 1891.

"If modern girls would put on more clothing at the proper time and do a little work and not so much loafing they would be healthier and live longer," according to Mrs. Hayden.

Germ Leads Dog's Life At the Barbecue Stands

Indianapolis, July 23—A germ leads a dog's life at the barbecue stands which are strung along Indiana highways, according to Dr. W. F. King, secretary of the state board of health today.

There is very little danger of anybody swallowing disease germs when eating a barbecue sandwich at these stands, he said, although they may eat a great amount of dust.

When a germ lights on one side of a shoulder of pork on a spit, it

Some people buy coal on the basis of the cheapest price. Others buy it on the basis of the best quality. It is our endeavor in selling coal for household use to supply the best burning coal we can buy. We are convinced that coal of good quality will save money in the end and will give much greater satisfaction in burning it.

J. P. FRAZEE & SON

The Man Who Talked at Random

HE sat in the window-corner of the Pullman's smoking compartment, and breathed fatly and uttered large opinions in a suety voice. It grew late, as so often it does; and he put the quietus on a discussion with the ponderous statement: "I don't read advertisements. They have no effect on me at all. I'd never miss them if they stopped printing 'em."

Then he glanced at his advertised watch and sought his lower-berth. In the morning the ad-skeptic contorted himself out of his advertised pajamas into his advertised underwear, drew on his advertised socks, adjusted them with his advertised garters, got into his advertised clothes, laced his advertised shoes and added himself to the congestion in the wash-room.

There he shaved with an advertised razor, using advertised shaving cream; brushed his teeth with an advertised toothbrush and advertised dental cream, washed with advertised soap, and brushed his hair with an advertised brush. Buttoning his advertised collar on an advertised button, he neatly knotted his advertised tie, gave his advertised suspenders a tug or two, and finished dressing. Let us leave him there, this man who never reads advertisements! Everything worth using is advertised. Everything that isn't rarely is.

Before introducing his alienists to show the defendants were and are sane, Crowe plans to place a large number of witnesses on the stand, to show step by step how the youths kidnapped and killed Robert, how they stripped the body and thrust it into a casket, on the southern outskirts of the city.

Crowe is expected to make an opening statement on the state's case and demands.

Clarence Darrow, chief attorney for the defense, will center his efforts on saving the boys from the gallows. He hopes to show the boys were not wholly responsible for their act.

Here are Major Robert Imbrie, murdered American vice consul at Teheran, Persia, and his wife. The consul was slain by natives as he attempted to take pictures of a religious ceremony. Mrs. Imbrie formerly was Katherine Gillespie, New Rochelle, N. Y.

NEW RECIPES GIVEN BY PURDUE WOMEN

Recipes for the making of cherry olives, current and raspberry jelly, and spiced currants about which several inquiries have been received, have been prepared by the home economics extension staff of Purdue University. The recipes are as follows:

Cherry Olives

Cherry olives are delicious served with meat or a salad course. Select firm ripe cherries. Wash, stem and pack in clean glass jars. Mix vinegar and water half and half. Add 1 tablespoonful of salt and pour mixture over the cherries. Slip a silver knife down to sides of jar to remove air bubbles. Seal and let stand a month or more before serving.

Current and Raspberry Jelly

Use equal weights of currents and raspberries. Pick over carefully and wash. Do not remove the stems on the currents. Mash the fruit thoroughly, bring to the boiling point and boil slowly until the currents look white. Pour through a jelly sieve, then into a jelly bag, and allow the juice to drip through. Measure, then let boil for five minutes. Skim and pour in hot sterilized jelly glasses. This makes a delightful jelly.

Spiced Current

A good relish to serve with meat. Wash thoroughly and stem three pounds of ripe currents. Put in the preserving kettle, add 2 1/2 lbs. of brown sugar and one cupful of vinegar. Tie in a piece of muslin 4 inches square, each of cinnamon and ground cloves. Add these spices and cook slowly for an hour. Place in an glass dish. This makes a delicious relish to serve with meat.

REMINISCENCE OF THE COVERED WAGON

The following is a sale bill taken from Anderson Kentucky News 1849. As indicated by this bill "times have changed." Those people who saw the play in Rushville last spring marveled at the number of articles these pioneer families attempted to take with them, but it is in all probability more significant to history to know some of the things they left behind.

SALE BILL

"Having sold my farm (I am leaving for Oregon Territory by ox team) I will offer on March 1, 1849, all of my personal property, to-wit: All ox teams except 2 teams, Buck and Ben and Tom and Jerry; 2 milk cows, 1 gray mare and colt; 1 pair of oxen and yoke; 1 baby yoke; 2 ox carts; 1 iron foot of poder weather boards; plow with wood mould board, 200 to 1,000 three foot clap boards, 1,500 10-foot fence rails; 1 60-gallon soap kettle; 85 sugar troughs made of white ash timber; 10 gallons of maple syrup; 2 spinning wheels; 30 pounds of mutton tallow; 1 large loom made by Jerry Wilson; 300 poles; 100 split hoops; 100 empty barrels; 1 32-gallon barrel of Johnson Miller whiskey, 7 years old; 20 gallons of apple brandy; 1 40-gallon copper still, of oak tanned leather; 3 saxes and crockery; 1 dozen wooden pitchforks; one-half interest in tan yard; 1 32-calibre rifle; bullet mold, and powder horn; rifle made by Ben Miller, 60 gallons of soft soap; hams, bacon and lard; 40 gallons of sorghum molasses; 6 fox hounds, all soft-mouthed except one. INCREASED DEATH RATE IS REPORTED

Changing Modes of Living are Reflected in Causes of Death in Indiana From Heart Disease

CANCER RATE IS ALARMING

Advent of Automobiles has Greatly Increased Toll of Deaths From Accidents, Report States

Indianapolis, Ind., July 23—Changing modes of living are reflected in the causes of death in Indiana as set out in a report by the state board of health today.

The report makes a comparison in the death rates from various causes in 1924 as with the rates for 1900. It also makes a comparison between the first six months of 1924 with the same period last year.

Among the causes of death which claimed a higher percentage of victims in 1923 than in 1900 are cancer, influenza, organic heart disease and apoplexy and automobile and railroad accidents. The death rates from suicide and homicide also increased.

According to the report, the increase in the deaths from cancer is alarming. In 1900, the rate was 38 to every 100,000 population and in 1923 it has jumped to 100.07. During the six months ending with June of this year this disease claimed 1348 victims is a slight decrease from 1405 during the same period in 1923.

Partly compensating for the alarming increase in cancer deaths is the fact that the death rate for tuberculosis was nearly halved between 1900 and 1923, or from 175.8 to 94.7. In the past six months this disease claimed 1328 as compared with 1486 who died during the same period last year. The lowering of the death rate is attributed partly to the fact that people are learning how to take care of themselves to ward off the disease, according to health board officials.

The high speed of present-day living was blamed as one of the causes of the increase in the death rate from organic heart disease from 61.3 in 1900 to 174.4 in 1923. This disease claimed 1483 in the first six months of this year.

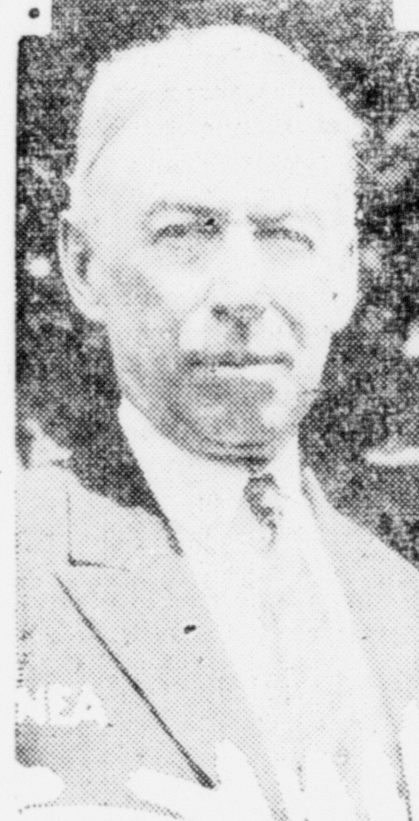

The advent of the automobile has greatly increased the toll of deaths from accidents, according to the report. The annual death rate was more than doubled from 1917 when 208 persons were killed in automobile accidents to 1923 when 533 were killed. The period of this year most fatal to automobile accident victims is just beginning, according to the health board's report. Only 183 persons were killed during the first six months of this year.

The first half of this year was especially fatal to those who rode on steam and electric railroads. For, during that period, the report said, 144 persons lost their lives in accidents that occurred on them.

Streams and lakes are just beginning to harvest their toll of drownings for this year, the report said. Sixty-five has been drowned in Indiana so far this year as compared with 147 during the first six months in 1923. Thirty of the sixty-five victims this year were claimed during June.

The total death rate from all causes in Indiana during the first six months of that year was 13.4 as compared with 14.5 for the same period in 1923, according to the report.

EASY INSURANCE CAUSE OF FIRES

Great Number of Incendiary Fires in State is Blamed on Lack of Restrictions

SOME LAY ELABORATE PLANS

Some Men Even Go as Far as to Singe Their Hair or Whiskers or go Out of City

Indianapolis, Ind., July 23—Easy in getting large amounts of insurance on property and the depression of business were said today to be the contributing causes of a great number of incendiary fires in Indiana recently, by G. L. Pugh, chief investigator for the state fire marshal.

Incendiaries have about a fifty-fifty chance to escape the law, he said, about one-half of those arrested are convicted. Nearly all of the convictions must be made on circumstantial evidence and it takes a great amount of skill to weave the web of circumstance close enough to entangle the suspect.

"In many of the cases the person that is responsible for an arson fire is out of the city at the time of the fire and pretends to know nothing of it until someone notifies him," Pugh said in extolling some of his troubles in getting convictions.

"In one case, a man told authorities that the night before his house burned he was out of town and his wife had a dream that the fire had occurred. He said he knew nothing of the fire until someone from home had notified him.

"Some incendiaries lay elaborate plans for their work. They even go as far as to singe their hair or whiskers. Sometimes they set their home on fire and then go to bed and pretend to be asleep when the firemen arrive or stay until the fire forces them to leave."

A Russian Jew who was a suspect had half of his whiskers singed off, Pugh said. Another suspect had his eyebrows singed.

Pugh told of a woman who had barely escaped getting burned to death when she rushed out of the bed where she pretended to be asleep through two rooms, blazing with kerosene-soaked furniture and into the street. She had her night-gown on but underneath her nightgown, she

The only Creator:—In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. All things were made by him; and without him was not anything made that was made. —John 1: 1, 3.

Workers

Critics of men in the public eye may condemn them unmercifully, but they generally come around to the same terminal every time—that the men in question are great workers.

The history of the lives of all outstanding men reveals their devotion to work. They become masters of their job first by work and then become masters of men.

When you think of oil, you think of Rockefeller. When you think of the telephone, you immediately think of Bell. When you think of the automobile, you immediately think of Ford, and when you think of electricity, the name of Edison comes to your lips.

The electrical wizard is the greatest living exponent of work. It is said of him that he once instructed his secretary to notify a man seeking an appointment, that he should come at twelve o'clock. It was twenty minutes to twelve when the telephone message was received.

The man asking an audience replied that he could not reach Edison's office by noon and the secretary informed him that the appointment was for midnight. Mr. Edison's caller found him listening to some music on the piano. At five minutes before twelve he dismissed the pianist and sat down to lunch with his caller to transact the business at hand.

It is said that Edison has gone two

One Friend Tells Another

The fame of a successful remedy is often spread far and wide by women telling one another of its merits, as is evidenced by a letter written by Mrs. Delbert Bush of Massena, N. Y. She writes: "I was in such a bad condition I could hardly walk, a friend who had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound with excellent results advised me to try it. It has given me back my health and I cannot praise it enough." There are women everywhere who have been benefited by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and gladly tell their friends and neighbors about it.

or three days at a time without changing his clothes or going home, even though his home is but a short distance from the laboratory.

This prodigious industry is rare in men, but even in a lesser degree, it is a very important part of achieving results.

No man can master his own business or profession without work. It is only by work that he can study his business and become skilled in it, and not until he is a student and is skilled, can he become a master of himself and his undertaking in life. Leaders of men are always workers else they would not be leaders.

An Academic Discussion

There is much controversy between Great Britain and France over the powers to be exercised by the proposed American member of the reparations commission. The discussion is of slight interest to this government, because there will never be an American member of the commission who will in any sense speak for the United States. It may be that an American will be invited to become a member of the commission, but he will act only in his individual capacity, just as Gen. Dawes and Mr. Young acted on the international committee that conceived the Dawes plan.

There is no policy of our international relations more firmly fixed than that of non-entanglement in the problems of Europe. The United States can never accept the responsibility that would go with an official representative on the reparations commission. We will continue to look after our own affairs.

HUNT'S DAILY LETTER

BY HARRY B. HUNT
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—Jud Welliver, ex-newspaper man, now chief clerk at the White House, has been giving considerable thought of late to analyzing, or trying to analyze, that political enigma, his boss, Calvin Coolidge.

Perhaps it is injudicious of us to tip Cal off to the fact that Jud has been dissecting him, metaphorically speaking. Maybe Cal doesn't like to be dissected.

Maybe his New England conscience will lead him to demand that Jud put in his time looking after the affairs of his job as chief clerk, not in trying to figure out how the wheels go round in the president's mental mechanism.

Still, since Cal is a candidate and Jud's analysis is a favorable one, we guess he won't fire Jud, so here goes.

THE president, Welliver says, after 10 months of close observation, does two things superlatively well. They are:

1. Listening.
2. Thinking.
Taking up these two matters in more detail, Welliver finds that though he is an expert listener the president is discriminating in his listening. In other words, unless a thing is worth listening to he doesn't listen to it.

He may appear to be listening, but the sound waves vibrating against his ear drums will not be registering on his consciousness.

On these occasions, though he may look like he's listening, he's really thinking. Welliver holds. Just what he thinks at such times, Welliver doesn't say—maybe it wouldn't look well in print—but from the way the condition is described it seems that the president just twists his mental dial and tunes out the speaker on such occasions.

The conversation continues, but

It doesn't register. And meantime the presidential mind is busy with something of real importance.

RUNNING close in importance to his listening and thinking ability, is the president's unhurried, methodical, rather plodding approach to the vast mass of routine labor his office entails.

He wastes neither energy nor time in flourishes or furbelows. What he needs to know about a matter he finds out by direct, incisive methods that neither invite nor admit the intrusion of irrelevant matter.

With these facts in the mental hopper, the answer comes out with mathematical precision and exactness, Welliver finds. It is like pulling the lever for a total on an adding machine.

If all the factors have been correctly entered, there can be no more mistake in the Coolidge answer, he holds, than in the mathematically exact, mechanical total of your cash register. For both are the result of simple but exact principles undeviatingly applied.

In his decisions as in his thinking and his speech, Welliver finds, there is no lost motion, no superfluous maneuvering. The result is a definiteness and clarity as to the executive attitude on public matters that has not been equaled—well, at least not since Welliver began analyzing presidents.

THAT recently popular slang phrase, "the cat's meow," has taken on new significance in Washington circles since members of the Washington vice squad, by imitating the softly-purred call of a lonely feline, obtained access the other night to the apartment of a lady, formerly of the "official" set, where a riotous liquor party was in progress.

Now wherever "Sergeant" McQuade, who "purred" the house, goes, a medley of caterwauls follows in his wake.

"One drawback to living at home is you can't throw your cigar ashes on the floor in the lobby."

Be careful about looking at thermometers in July. It is not polite to fuss before ladies.

When you see a man standing on the corner scratching, ask him how he enjoyed his vacation.

Next to the water cooler and bathtub, the soda fountain is our most popular summer resort.

A mad bride tells us she shares "his joys and sorrows, he taking the joys and giving her the sorrows."

The good die young. Just as soon as a homemaker begins to get good, her own kills it.

All a man needs to know about a woman is all he doesn't know.

A family at odds soon comes to odds and ends.

When you see a tree torn down these days you never know if it was lightning or an auto.

This world could be twice as bad as it is. The seasons on Mars are twice as long as ours.

A candidate with strings attached has his little drawbacks.

Little boys live a hard life. One tells us his big sister borrows his bathing suit.

About the only way to keep the ants out of your picnic lunch is to let the cow get it.

Camping out gets one in the open, so do all kinds of bugs.

MOVIES

"Omar, the Tentmaker"

"Omar, the Tentmaker," which is scheduled to start a two day engagement at the Castle theatre today, has been hailed as the screen's most colorful offering. Guy Bates Post is the star of the picture, which was produced by Richard Walton Tully and is being released as a First National attraction.

Here are some of the artistic settings it contains:

A rose garden, with fountains splashing in the silvery moonlight—a poetic youth and a beautiful maid! The streets of golden Naishapur, bustling with pilgrims, natives, vendors of everything imaginable, caravans of camels, bands of Bedouins on Arabian steeds—and beggars! A tavern, with bibulous youths roistering in the immemorial manner! The mystic Temple of Zoroaster, its altar looming up in the semi-darkness of the interior, its minarets where the muzzins chant their call to prayer! The gardens of the Governor, with slaves who carry out his slightest wish, for his wish is law! The dungeon cells—"the home of ten thousand shadows"—in which the doomed await their execution, or the far greater dread of torture! The potter's shop, emblematic of the seat of the Maker of Mankind, and the clay on the wheel as the clay in His hands! The halls of the mighty Shah of Shahs, whose wealth can buy for his leering senility even the fairest flower of all Persia! The study of the philosopher-poet, Omar, the Tentmaker, son of an artisan father, whose manifold talents compose the eternally beloved scientific calendar—a room where scrolls of verses mingle with astronomical instruments.

Gloria Swanson at Princess

Gloria Swanson wears a glittering array of new gowns in "A Society Scandal," her new Paramount production, which is receiving its first local showing at the Princess theatre today. But the fires of acting genius that were lighted by this star in "Zaza" and "The Humming Bird" are still flaring brightly. So while Miss Swanson offers an even more enticing fashion show than she ever did in her former "gown pictures," she also reminds us that she is a lady of outstanding dramatic and emotional talents besides. The combination is "delightful."

"A Society Scandal" was adapted by Forrest Halsey, who also made the remarkably skillful scenario of "The Humming Bird" from Alfred Sutro's play, "The Laughing Lady" in which Ethel Barrymore starred on the New York stage. Mr. Halsey has taken several liberties with the polished Mr. Sutro's manuscript, but, we firmly believe, all are the best.

Miss Swanson has the role of a society beauty, who, involved innocently in a compromising situation with a roiter, is sued for divorce by her weakling husband. On the stand her husband's lawyer, a handsome, young and over-zealous attorney, tears her reputation to shreds. Whereupon it becomes the fair divorcee's chief aim in life to humiliate the lawyer in some way for the ruin he has wrought upon her socially. The poignant manner in which she accomplishes her purpose and the surprising result are pictured in a most engrossing manner.

IS COMING HOME
TO ACT AS COACH

Everett S. Dean, Indiana Alumnus, is Named Head Baseball and Basketball Coach

TO SUCCEED LESLIE MANN

Graduate of I. U. Has Been Building
Teams in Mid-West Conference at Carleton

Bloomington, Ind., July 23—Everett S. Dean, all-conference center at Indiana university in 1920 and 1921 and for the past three years, head coach of baseball and basketball and assistant football coach at Carleton college, has been named head baseball and basketball coach at Indiana university to succeed Leslie Mann.

The selection of Dean was announced by the athletic committee after consideration of a large field of material and upon the recommendation of Athletic Director Zora G. Clevenger. Dean returns to his alma mater after producing at Carleton college during the past season the baseball and basketball championship teams of the mid-west conference, which is made up of leading colleges from Iowa, Wisconsin, Illinois and Minnesota.

The new Indiana coach has been serving as instructor in the Indiana summer coaching school. As star athlete and captain at Indiana and as coach, he has demonstrated that he knows how to handle men. The fact that he proved a star in play and that he produced winning teams after leaving the university satisfied the Indiana athletic committee that he knows and can teach both basketball and baseball and is a worthy successor to Coach Mann who recently turned in his resignation.

Upon leaving Indiana in 1921 Dean went to Carleton college and began building basketball and baseball teams. In 1922 his basketball team lost only one game in the mid-west conference and in 1923 only two games. Both years Carleton finished second in the conference. Last year Dean took his basketball quintet to the top of the ladder and won both the mid-west and the Minnesota state college championships. Dean's baseball team developed in the same progressive way, winning second place in the mid-west conference in 1922 and 1923 and first place last year.

It is understood that Dean will take up his new duties at the opening of the university next fall and that he probably will be on the football coaching staff.

KEEPING ONE EYE
ON THE SCOREBOARD

Yesterday's Hero—"Gabby" Hartnett, young Cub catcher, who cracked out a brace of homers, the second day he has done so this week.

Ty Cobb's Tigers took the Yankees in their own stadium and shook them out of first place. Pennock and Wells engaging in a pitching duel which ended in the latter's favor 3 to 1. Detroit now is leading the league.

The Senators broke even with the White Sox in a double bill losing the first 4 to 0 and winning the second 4 to 1.

The Giants slaughtered three Red twirlers, making 17 hits and piling up such a lead that a ninth inning rally by the home team failed to have any effect, New York winning 9 to 4.

After losing nine straight games the Red Sox turned on the Indians and won an 11 inning game 4 to 3.

The Cubs and Braves divided a double bill, McNamara only have the home team turn upon the visitors and take the second 8 to 1.

The Browns drove Hasty from the mound and beat the Athletics 5 to 3.

The Phils came from behind to take the Cards into camp 5 to 2.

A game cut short by rain in the sixth was won by the Dodgers, 4 to 1, taking third place from the Pirates.

In Title Fight

Articles have finally been signed by which Mickey Walker, welterweight champion, and Benny Leonard, lightweight champion, will clash in a "mixed championship" fight in the Jersey City bowl, Aug. 21. To win the welterweight title from Walker, Leonard will have to score a knockout. No official decision will be given.

Here's a rich one—George Connolly of the White Sox is one of the most promising young pitchers in the big leagues today. For him the future seems to hold much in the way of fame and fortune. But George Connolly doesn't want to stay in the big leagues. "I want to go back to Texas and play in the minors where the fans all call you by your first name," he pleads. "I used to be a big hero in Galveston, but nobody seems to know I exist in Chicago."

Stars off Today at Hinsdale Country Club

EVANS PRESENT TITLEHOLDER

Chicago July 23—Thirty-two golfers, survivors of the qualifying round of the western amateur golf championship, started off today on the opening round of match play at the Hinsdale Country Club here.

Arthur B. Sweet, of the Edgewood Club, Chicago, won medal honors with a score of 72-69-141. Par for the course was 72.

Jimmy Manion, St. Louis, Frank Dwyer, Memphis and Rudy Knepper, Chicago, tied for second place with scores of 143.

Chick Evans, present titleholder, who was automatically qualified, drew the starting position today—paired with Bob White, a Chicago youngster. This pair will get away at 9 o'clock. Sweet and Eddie Field, St. Louis, will tee off five minutes later.

Crawfordsville, Ind., July 23—Sneak thieves took $6 of $20 in a cash drawer at the local library. Police are looking for the borrower.

HERO OF HITLESS GAME

The first hitless game of the big league season goes to the credit of Jesse Haines of the St. Louis Cardinals, who turned in a pitching classic against the Boston Braves, scoring a 5-0 victory. Haines walked one batter in the first, and two in the sixth. These were the only men to reach first base. No Cardinal player was charged with an error and not one hard chance was fired at any fielder during the game.

ATHLETES STANDING
OUT IN THE OLYMPICS

III.—Jackson V. Scholz

By FRANK GETTY
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

New York, July 23—A victory without which the Olympic Games of 1924 would not have been complete, at least from the American point of view, was that of Jackson V. Scholz, former Missouri University star, now of the New York Athletic Club, in the 200 metre dash.

Jack Scholz was the famous "comeback" of the Olympiad.

After Antwerp, in which he represented the United States in the dashes but failed to distinguish himself, Scholz was thought to have hung up his spiked shoes for good. Jack thought so himself, as a couple of springs drifted by and the call of the cinders came more faintly each year.

Last winter, however, running in the colors of the New York A. C., Scholz trained for and entered the indoor meets around this city. He captured the Metropolitan 70-yard championship, but otherwise was consistently beaten by Loren Murchison and "Boots" Lever. On his showing on the boards, none of the critics picked Jack for Olympic glory.

With the approach of the outdoor season, however, Scholz who had little to occupy his time except his work as a short-story writer, got down to hard training. One day we got a tip that the veteran had torn off a practice "hundred" in 19 3-5 seconds.

When the sectional Olympic trials were held here, Scholz surprised many by winning the 100 metres, beating Murchison and Frank Hussey in record time.

Then came the final tryouts at Cambridge, which brought together the cream of the country's sprinters, with Jack Scholz, at 27, the "old man," the "veteran who is trying to come back."

Anyway, Jack did, and he came back so fast that nobody could keep up with him. He equaled the Olympic record in the 200 metres, then broke it; equaled the world's record, and then smashed that. He was second to Chet Bowman in a 100 he might have won, and was easily the best at 200 metres.

Scholz's performances, overshadowing all others at Cambridge, made him, perhaps, the outstanding figure of our team at Paris, and he was picked by the American coaches as a likely winner of both the dashes.

In the 100 metres at Colombes Stadium came the upset in which the rangy English Jew, Abrahams, proved himself Scholz's master at the shorter distance and ran away with first place, the N. Y. A. C. flyer taking second.

It was then decidedly up to Jack to make good in the 200 metres, the distance at which he is best, and at which no faster man ever essayed. The triumph of the "come-back" was complete. It was not a hollow victory that he won that boiling summer's day, for it was only by a characteristic twist of his shoulder as he and Charley Paddock lunged themselves at the line that it was Scholz who broke the tape. But he won, making a total of 15 points he had contributed to America's column, and he had the satisfaction of showing up Abrahams, who finished a poor last.

Abrahams still is the better man at the 100 metres or 100 yards. He is the perfect running machine. But it takes "cuts" for fuel when a running-machine must cover the furlong, and Scholz had them.

NEED OF CHANGE IN CONSTITUTION

Amendment to Make it More Difficult For Supreme Court to Decide on Laws, is Predicted

PRELIMINARY PLAN MADE

Proposes to Require Unanimous Decision by the Court to Declare State Laws Illegal

Indianapolis, Ind., July 23—Amendment of the state constitution to make it more difficult for the Indiana Supreme court to declare laws passed by the state legislature unconstitutional was seen as an advisable step today by Charles Kettleborough, head of the state legislative reference bureau.

Kettleborough is a widely known authority on legislative procedure and has charge of drafting and redrafting of all bills presented for legislative enactment in Indiana.

The constitution should be amended, he said to require unanimous decision by the court in declaring a law unconstitutional. It now permits a decision by only a majority. He sighted an opinion of the former Justice Clark of the United States Supreme court who has stated that, if a presumption should exist in the mind of any member of the court that a law should not be declared unconstitutional the law should remain in effect. A dissenting opinion by any member of the court should be sufficient presumption he said.

Kettleborough declared that the standard of the personal of courts all over the country should be raised to keep in step with the progress of industry and business. It was his opinion that this could be accomplished by raising the salaries of judges and lengthening their terms.

The salaries of $7,500 paid Supreme court judges in Indiana are too low he said, and should be increased to at least $10,000. A bill presented in the last legislature to increase their salaries failed to pass.

No bills have been for drafting by the bureau so far, Kettleborough said. Political activities is excluding any thought of the legislature. The flood

"WHITE INDIANS" REACH U. S.

Out of the jungle depths of the "forbidden country" in the Panama interior Richard O. Marsh, explorer, has brought for the observation of science three "white Indians." They are children of the much-discussed tribe which explorers have for generations attempted to reach and a score of lives have been lost in the effort. The "white Indian" youngsters have been named Margaret and Alo and Chepu. Just behind them is Marsh who brought them to New York where eminent scientists will seek to learn whether they are really "white Indians" or Albinos.

more this year than it did last. The production last year was $55,000 bushels, and with an equal yield this year, a 20 cent increase, which is conservative, would bring $177,000 more to the farmers of the county for their wheat crop.

The county corn production last year was 3,602,000 bushels. It is easy to compute what a few cents on the bushel more will mean to Rush county.

Arkansas Lady Says Mother Gave Her Cardui and She Had No More Trouble of This Kind.

Lamar, Ark.—Mrs. Edith Seeman, here, recently made the following statement describing her experience in the use of Cardui:

"I had pain in my back and sides; had sick headaches and my nose would bleed. I couldn't sit up at all.

"My mother gave me Cardui. I took about a half bottle and at this... I was able to get up and help with the work. Next time I took it again, and now, after taking two bottles, I do not have any trouble at all at this time. I gained, my skin cleared up, I am healthy and strong.

"My mother took Cardui for a week, run-down condition. It did her more good for weakness and nervousness than any medicine she has ever taken. She took six bottles in all. We recommend it and certainly know its worth."

The foregoing is one out of thousands of statements which have been received from users of Cardui, the woman's tonic. If you are a sufferer from womanly ailments, try Cardui. It may be just what you need. At your dealer's. NC-155

GALLOWES DEMAND MADE BY STATE

Extreme Penalty to be Sought As
Punishment for Slaying of 14-
Year-Old Franks Boy

OPENING STATEMENT MADE

For Three Months Leeb and Leopold
Planned Crime, State's Attorney
Crowe Asserts

(By United Press)

Criminal Court, Chicago, Ill., July 23—A dramatic plea for hanging was made today by State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe, as he concluded a bitter arraignment of Nathan Leopold and Robert Leeb for the slaying of Robert Franks, a school boy.

Crowe, speaking with anger, briefly described the killing as one of the most atrocious crimes in the history of Chicago, and in the name of the people and state demanded a sentence of death.

Attorney Clarence Darrow for the defense sprang to his feet as Crowe concluded and took issue with the characterization of the killing as "atrocious." The attorneys started a sharp wrangle and were halted by Chief Justice Carver, who ordered Darrow to make a plain statement and for Crowe to keep the peace.

"These boys," Darrow explained, "have committed a murder and we of the defense have admitted the crime in all its terrible details. The boys themselves have confessed killing Robert Franks and have come before the bar of justice and thrown their fate upon the mercy of the court."

"But your honor, this murder was not the atrocious, terrible, brutal, dastardly crime that the state's attorney so bitterly pictured."

"The state's attorney has exaggerated and played upon the details of the crime and the subsequent confessions so as to appeal and stir up bitter emotion in the public mind."

"Such statements as those delivered by the state's attorney were unlawful. He had no business to make at this time the charges against these boys. It would not surprise me if other and more terrible crimes even might result from such statements."

"The defense in the case," Darrow said, "is making no effort to acquit these murderers. We will try to show in our evidence that these boys are victims of certain influences which make them in a degree at least not responsible for the crime they committed."

"We ask only that this court show leniency to these defendants and believe that your honor will appreciate that two mature men could never have committed this murder."

"Understanding their youth and their simple pleas of guilt we believe the court will not sentence them to hang by the neck until dead."

Leopold and Leeb squinting under the fire of Crowe's charges, regained their composure as Darrow made a brief outline of the defense's case.

They whispered to each other as Jacob Franks, father of the victim, took the stand. Franks keeping his eyes from the slayers of his son testified perfunctorily, identifying articles of apparel worn by Robert. Speaking in a low voice and showing little emotion, Franks identified a photograph of his son. The ran-

CHECK CHARGE DISMISSED

Affidavit Against Harry Schmalzel is
Thrown Out of Court

The case of the state against Harry Schmalzel of this city, who was charged with issuing a fraudulent check in Connersville, has been dismissed in the Fayette circuit court on motion of the prosecuting attorney, according to the Connersville News-Examiner.

The Connersville newspaper says it understands that an adjustment of the matter was made outside of court some time ago, which resulted in the motion to dismiss at this time.

The check was for a very small amount and surprise was expressed by Schmalzel's friends here when the charge was filed and pressed by the prosecuting witness.

FARMERS PROFIT FROM ADVANCES

Increases in Prices of Hogs, Cattle,
Wheat and Corn Means Thousands of Dollars in County

HOGS NEARING $10.00 TODAY

Many Farmers Who Were Pessimistic
a Month Ago, Are Now Confident
of The Future

Farmers of Rush county have profited thousands of dollars this month on account of the increase in the price of hogs, cattle, wheat and corn, and many farmers who were pessimistic a month ago, today are smiling and confident of the future.

The increase of fifty cents in the price of hogs today further served to strengthen the backbone of Rush county farmers. Wheat closed in a slight slump Tuesday evening, but rallied this morning and was selling for $1.12 at local elevators. Chicago board of trade prices at the close Tuesday was $1.25 and this morning they were back up to $1.27.

Predictions of optimists a few weeks ago, that $10.00 hogs and $1.35 wheat were not far distant, which were launched at, are coming true and those who ridiculed the idea then have been willing to admit that they were mistaken.

The incident is told of a Rush county land owner whose tenant literally threw up his hands about a month ago and said that he was broke and could not make it. The land owner said he would see him through and he has been paying the bills. Today the tenant is able to get credit and is paying his own bills, because he is a few thousand dollars better off than he was a month ago, on account of the rise in prices.

Figured on the basis of seven and a half cents as the average price for hogs last year, the rise in the price of hogs this month, which has amounted to two and a fourth cents a pound, the increase has meant over $6,000 in the pockets of Rush county farmers in the past twenty-three days.

Conservative estimates place Rush county hog production at 200,000 a year. With hogs averaging 220 pounds when they are marketed, Rush county farmers sell 44,000,000 pounds of hogs annually. An average increase of two and a fourth cents a pound for the year would increase the revenue of Rush county farmers $990,000. This is an average daily increase of $271.33, or a total of $66,000 more for July than if the price of hogs had averaged the same as last year.

On the first of July hogs were selling at $7.35. The prices since that date, which show the gradual increase, are as follows:

July 2, $7.40; July 3, $7.60; (no market quotations the 4th, 5th and 6th); July 7, $7.50; July 8, $7.50; July 9, $7.60; July 10, $7.65; July 11, $7.70; July 12, $7.65; July 14, $7.65; July 15, $7.85; July 16, $7.90; July 17, $8.10; July 18, $8.15; July 19, $8.50; July 21, $8.75; July 22, $9.25; July 23, $9.75.

Reports of good wheat yields continue to come in. A field on the Alva Newhouse farm in Jackson township averaged 27 bushels to the acre. One on the Riley Coulter farm, in Anderson township, last week averaged 28 bushels to the acre.

The Rush county wheat crop will sell for several thousand dollars.

BRAZILIAN FEDERALS OPEN EXPECTED ATTACK

Advance on Rebel Forces in Sao Paulo
City After Artillery Bombardment of 48 Hours

MANY BUILDINGS DESTROYED

Buenos Aires, July 23—Brazilian Federal troops have begun their long expected major attack on the rebel forces in Sao Paulo city, according to messages here today.

Strong infantry units supported by tanks and airplanes advanced on the rebel entrenchments on three sides of the coffee capital yesterday afternoon, following an artillery bombardment of 48 hours.

Sao Paulo City has been badly damaged, the message said. Many of the fine buildings in the center of the city were partly destroyed by shell fire. The city has been practically evacuated by the civilian population. A number of American refugees left Santos by northbound ships yesterday.

More than 20,000 men were in action and the continuous roar of artillery was heard in Santos, more than 20 miles away, radio messages said.

SPIRITED AWAY TO DODGE A LYNCHING

Three Negroes, Suspected as Slayers of Village Ridge, Ill. Girl,
Taken to Menard, Ill.

GUARDSMEN AT MOUND CITY

(By United Press)

Murphyshoro, Ill., July 23—Three negroes arrested as suspects in the murder of Daisy Wilson, 15 year old girl of Villa Ridge, Pulaski county, today were rushed to Menard, Illinois, by Sheriff I. N. Hindson, who escaped Mound City, near the scene of the slaying, to dodge a lynching.

Two attempts during yesterday were frustrated, one by the pleas of a Klan organizer and the other by rushing the prisoners from Mounds, six miles from Villa Ridge, to Mound City, seat of Pulaski county.

Late last night a mob gathered around the jail in Mound City and refused to disperse even upon threat of calling out state troops.

Springfield, Ill., July 23—"The situation at Mound City is entirely under control," Colonel Frank L. Taylor, speaking for Governor Len Small, declared today.

Company K, one hundred and thirty-four infantry, Cairo, Ill., rushed in trucks to the scene of disorder early this morning and are stationed at Mound City where three negroes were threatened with lynching.

SHADOW OF POINCARE HOVERS OVER CONFAB

Grave Possibility of Another Failure
to Settle Reparations Tangle
Seen Today

SITUATION STILL CRITICAL

(By United Press)

London, July 23—The shadow of ex-Premier Poincare hovered over the allied conference as the plenary session was convened at 3 p. m. today, with grave possibility another of the efforts to settle the German reparations question may end in failure.

It was admitted the situation still is critical as the allied representatives gathered for the public meeting, but delegates continued to do their utmost to harmonize the divergent French and Anglo-American viewpoints hoping for a lasting decision instead of a precarious compromise.

Premier Herriot is afraid to go too far in making concessions for fear of the attacks of ex-Premier Poincare at home. The bankers cannot go back on what they consider necessary guarantees without endangering the proposed $200,000,000 loan to Germany.

The French want a lien on sanctions, with France assured of something from Germany no matter what happens; the bankers insist upon adequate guarantees for the loan and do not want Germany to be too hastily declared in default.

The principal argument, therefore, has been over who shall decide when Germany is in default.

Nashville, Tenn., July 23—After hours of grilling Frank Harrall, 22, construction worker, arrested here last night in connection with the murder of Mayor Samuel H. McLeary, near Columbia, South Carolina, on the afternoon of July 2, made a complete confession today.

Harrall told in detail how he and M. M. King killed Mayor McLeary after the mayor offered him to give them a ride in his automobile, according to police.

MANY WITNESS TRUCK EXHIBITION

Aerial Apparatus Hoisted in Front of The Maszy Co., Building to Show How it Operates

SCHEDULED FOR AFTERNOON

Demonstration Changed so That Exhibition Could be Given in India-
napolis This Afternoon

Many people were on hand this morning to witness the demonstration of the aerial fire truck, although the performance was not scheduled until this afternoon, and others were disappointed who came down town later in the day to inspect the new apparatus.

The truck was built at Cincinnati and is being delivered to Kokomo, and while enroute, it was displayed at Connersville, Rushville and Indianapolis. On account of the change in the plans, the truck was demonstrated here this morning and left for Indianapolis so that it could reach its destination tonight.

The large aerial truck was handled conveniently in making the turns about the city, and it was driven over several of the streets this morning. It stopped in front of the Maszy Company building a four story structure, and the large ladder was hoisted easily to the top, with enough of the ladder left to reach two more stories.

The truck also carries other ladder equipment for use in residential districts, where the water tower is not needed. The demonstration was interesting, and gave people of Rushville an opportunity of seeing a piece of fire fighting apparatus in action that is seldom seen in cities of this size.

The truck was accompanied by several drivers from the factory, including John P. Ahrens, vice president of the Ahrens-Fox company, fire chief Lee of Kokomo, fire chief Greag and assistant fire chief Root of Connersville.

REFUSES TO LET TROOPS SET CARL MAGEE FREE

Governor James Hinkle of New Mexico
Denies Request to Give Editor
Freedom

SENTENCED AND PARDONED

Las Vegas, N. M., July 23—Governor James Hinkle today refused to order national guard troops to free Carl Magee, editor of the New Mexico Tribune, in jail at Las Vegas for contempt of court, as requested by Adjutant General Skipwith.

The governor said the case must now go to the Supreme court to be decided, but indicated he would arrange to release Magee on bond pending action of the higher court.

Magee was sentenced yesterday and the governor issued a pardon which Sheriff Delgado refused to recognize, holding the governor could not pardon for direct contempt of court. As a result Magee spent the night in jail. The supreme court will be asked to rule upon the question of whether the governor may pardon in cases of direct contempt.

The governor gave the pardon to Adjutant General Skipwith who presented it to Sheriff Delgado. When the sheriff refused to honor release order, Skipwith appealed to the right to use troops to force Magee's release.

SEXTETTE HERE FIRST SUNDAY

Organization of Musicians, Coming to Chautauqua, Regarded as "Master
Attraction"

IS COMPOSED OF SIX MEN

Play String and Wind Instruments
and Programs Consist of Works of
The Masters

One of the best musical attractions for the Rush County Chautauqua, which will be held here August 10 to 17, will be on the first Sunday, August 10, with the appearance of the Chautauqua Sextette.

This is a purely instrumental organization, and while the program committee this year did not deem it advisable to bring a band here, they devoted much time in making up for it, by obtaining several high class musical programs.

The Chautauqua Sextette is called "A Master Attraction" by the Lyceum bureau that has charge of their bookings, and they obtain their name from the fact that the sextette renders programs from the music of the Masters.

The musical organization consists of men, all of whom play string instruments, as well as horns. They appear here in the afternoon and night on Sunday, August 10, and will no doubt prove to be a popular musical organization with the local assembly-goers.

Myron Witepski, whose musician-ship has been proven in his own work upon the chautauqua platform, guarantees this company to be one of the finest. It has been selected from among the very best orchestral players of Chicago. Every member has had abundant experience and is a master of his instrument.

The programs have been arranged with rare skill in order to thoroughly satisfy the music lovers of the community and interest every member of their audiences.

In addition to the regular orchestral numbers, one of the members of the company is a master of the Xylophone, which adds greatly to the attractiveness of their program.

Two representatives of the Coit-Alber Company listened to the Sextette in their regular programs during the past summer and followed their reports through the season and decided that the Chautauqua Sextette was fully worthy to be numbered among the "Master Attractions" of the Coit-Alber list.

The program of the splendid sextette will prove to be among the most satisfying events of the coming season.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY AT NEW YORK OFFICE

Mrs. Charlotte L. Farrar, Formerly
Miss Charlotte Sleeth of This City is Appointed

VERY ACTIVE IN POLITICS

Mrs. Charlotte L. Farrar of New York City, formerly Miss Charlotte Sleeth of Rushville, has been appointed assistant secretary of the republican national committee by William M. Butler, the chairman, and will be in the New York office of the committee at Fifth Avenue and Forty-sixth street.

Mrs. Farrar has been very influential in New York politics. She was a delegate to the national convention at Cleveland from the tenth assembly district. Mrs. Farrar, as captain of the Woman's Republican club of the district, has built up a very influential political organization which functions very much like Tammany.

Mrs. Farrar is a sister of Miss Nora Sleeth, county recorder, and Miss Mary Sleeth, city librarian. Both attended the national convention at Cleveland, the latter as a member of the Indiana delegation, and visited with their sister.

Leopold and Loeb Pleading Guilty

Here are Nathan F. Leopold Jr. (left) and Richard Loeb, 18-year-old sons of millionaires, at the bar in Chief Justice John R. Caverly's court, pleading guilty to the kidnaping and murder of 14-year-old Robert Franks. Both of the youthful "intellectuals" were dressed fastidiously as they came into court. And both outwardly were calm as they walked to the bench. Leopold, however, is gazing downward, but Loeb is looking straight at the judge. The strain, though, is noticeable in the faces of both.

GALLOWES DEMAND
MADE BY STATE

som letter demanding $10,000 sent by Loeb and Leopold, was presented to Franks. He identified it as the one he received. Then piece by piece the apparel worn by Robert at the time of his disappearance was held before the aged man.

"Yes that was worn by Robert," he whispered nodding and pointing to a bedraggled shirt. "Yes, Robert wore that," he said as a pair of trousers was held up. A coat, stockings, shoes, a belt and other articles were shown him.

Franks was in complete control of himself and never once did he falter as pieces of clothing were held out for his identification.

"The state intends to present the evidence and at the conclusion to ask that the extreme penalty be imposed upon these defendants," Crowe cried in outlining the state's case.

"During the months of November, December and January these defendants planned and schemed this terrible crime, hoping they never would be brought to the bar of justice," Crowe said.

Crowe said he would show that Leopold and Loeb "practiced throwing a bundle from a moving Michigan Central train, planning to have Robert Franks' father board the same train and throw off a bundle of $10,000 cash—their ransom for kidnaping of young Franks."

Crowe announced that the state would prove that Loeb and Leopold registered at a downtown hotel and under assumed names—a plan intended to hide their identity and aid their escape. He said the prosecution would show how the young murderers rented an automobile from the Rent-a-Car Company—the automobile in which Robert Franks was kidnapped and slain.

Crowe spoke easily and deliberately, folding his arms and occasionally striking the palm of his hand with his fist for emphasis. The courtroom, filled to every nook and corner was silent.

Leopold, sitting at the attorney's table looked off into space, occasionally glancing toward Crowe. Young Loeb seemed more interested, crossing his legs and gazing steadily at the state's attorney.

Crowe told how the young slayers went to Peoria, Ill., registered at a hotel and attempted to establish themselves as prosperous business men.

At this point Benjamin Bachrach turned and whispered in Loeb's ear. Loeb nodded and passed some word along to Leopold, who also nodded, smiled a bit wistfully, then turned away.

Crowe then called for the original copy of the $10,000 ransom letter sent to Jacob Franks, the slain boy's father, shortly after the murder.

Leopold, for the first time, appeared interested.

This letter, couched in flawless English and perfectly punctuated, was one of his prides.

The letter warned Franks that his son might be injured or killed unless he delivered the $10,000 according to instructions. The letter was signed "George Johnson."

Crowe said the letter had been written long before the murderers decided upon their victim. Not until after young Franks was killed did they address the letter to Franks.

They had to consult a telephone directory to find the Franks address.

This, Crowe argued, showed the cold blooded nature of the crime. They longed to kill—they cared not who their victim was, the state's attorney said. It was only by chance, Crowe said, that they well upon the Franks boy.

"The evidence will show that the boys went to the Leopold home, where they obtained a can of ether which Leopold used in etherizing birds," Crowe said. "They secured tape and gags and set out in the rented automobile, stopped at a drug store and bought acid which they intended to use in burning away the features of their little victim."

Only because John Levinson, another small millionaire's son, hurried home through an alley instead of following the sidewalk was this boy saved from the fate that befell Robert Franks," Crowe declared.

Leopold and Loeb, according to Crowe, drove their automobile to the Harvard private school, stopping a few hundred feet from the playground, in order to avoid suspicion.

They watched a score of boys playing ball and argued between themselves as to which one they should kidnap and murder. They decided upon young Levinson, but when they missed him they decided that the Franks boy would be their victim. They took notice of the fact that Robert's father was a millionaire, Crowe said, and therefore would be willing to pay the ransom.

"Seeing Robert Franks swinging gaily along a sunlit street these two defendants drove alongside of him and invited the little youngster to get in for a ride," Crowe said.

"While one of the boys drove, the other leaned over from the rear seat and struck that innocent child over the head with a tape-bound chisel. The boy was pulled into the back seat and covered with blankets."

INDIANA WOMAN, 114,
OLDEST IN UNITED STATES

Worthington, Ind., July 23—Relatives of Mrs. Kitty Dean-Hayden, who celebrated her 114th birthday recently believe she is the oldest woman in the United States.

Mrs. Hayden, having been a Methodist all her life is opposed to dancing and bobbed hair.

Despite her opposition to tobacco, Mrs. Hayden used to use it her self. According to a niece Mrs. R. E. Eaton of Linton, Mrs. Eaton was advised to use tobacco when a girl by a doctor who thought she had tuberculosis. She was a smoker until one day her brother hid her pipe. She hasn't smoked since.

Born of farmer parentage in Salt Works, Smith county Virginia, July 17, 1810, Mrs. Hayden received her early education working on her father's farm. There were no schools. She sawed logs, cut rails, and worked in the harvest fields until she was 21, when she married Richard Hayden. It had been incumbent on her to work on the farm to help her father pay for it.

With another newly married couple the Haydens came to Indiana, ninety-three years ago. The couple settled at Point Commerce, Ind., now Worthington. There were only a few scattered houses there. A tavern and store were built soon after.

Mrs. Hayden was the mother of eight children, four of whom are still living. Two of the living are boys and two girls. The oldest is 79 and the youngest 59. Her husband who was a member of the 97th Indiana Volunteers in the Civil War died in 1891.

"If modern girls would put on more clothing at the proper time and do a little work and not so much loafing they would be healthier and live longer," according to Mrs. Hayden.

Germ Leads Dog's Life
At the Barbecue Stands

Indianapolis, July 23—A germ leads a dog's life at the barbecue stands which are strung along Indiana highways, according to Dr. W. F. King, secretary of the state board of health today.

There is very little danger of anybody swallowing disease germs when eating a barbecue sandwich at these stands, he said, although they may eat a great amount of dust.

When a germ lights on one side of a shoulder of pork on a spit, it

J. P. FRAZEE & SON

The Man Who Talked
at Random

HE sat in the window-corner of the Pullman's smoking compartment, and breathed fatly and uttered large opinions in a suety voice. It grew late, as so often it does; and he put the quietus on a discussion with the ponderous statement:

"I don't read advertisements. They have no effect on me at all. I'd never miss them if they stopped printing 'em."

Then he glanced at his advertised watch and sought his lower-berth.

In the morning the ad-skeptic contorted himself out of his advertised pajamas into his advertised underwear, drew on his advertised socks, adjusted them with his advertised garters, got into his advertised clothes, laced his advertised shoes and added himself to the congestion in the wash-room.

There he shaved with an advertised razor, using advertised shaving cream; brushed his teeth with an advertised toothbrush and advertised dental cream, washed with advertised soap, and brushed his hair with an advertised brush. Buttoning his advertised collar on an advertised button, he neatly knotted his advertised tie, gave his advertised suspenders a tug or two, and finished dressing.

Let us leave him there, this man who never reads advertisements! Everything worth using is advertised. Everything that isn't rarely is.

Meat Safeguards Health

"A French scientist has been experimenting with raw meat juice (Zoume) for tubercular patients with gratifying results. Meat has been the target for food faddists so long that we despaired of any spectacular theory ever being advanced in its favor. Now that its hidden qualities have been exposed we find no difficulty in controlling our enthusiasm. Enough well cooked meat in a man's ration to meet the natural requirement of his appetite, we expect will go a long way toward keeping him in a condition such as would not require this Frenchman's drastic treatment."—National Stockman and Farmer.

NEW RECIPES GIVEN BY PURDUE WOMEN

Recipes for the making of cherry olives, current and raspberry jelly, and spiced currants about which several inquiries have been received, have been prepared by the home economics extension staff of Purdue University. The recipes are as follows:

Cherry Olives

Cherry olives are delicious served with meat or a salad course.

Select firm ripe cherries. Wash, stem and pack in clean glass jars. Mix vinegar and water half and half. Add 1 tablespoonful of salt and pour mixture over the cherries. Slip a silver-knife down to sides of jar to remove air bubbles. Seal and let stand a month or more before serving.

Current and Raspberry Jelly

Use equal weights of currents and raspberries. Pick over carefully and wash. Do not remove the stems on the currents. Mash the fruit thoroughly, bring to the boiling point and boil slowly until the currents look white. Pour through a jelly sieve, then into a jelly-bag, and allow the juice to drip through. Measure, then let boil for five minutes, then add an equal amount of sugar that has been carefully heated in a pan on the oven and boil three minutes. Skim and pour in hot sterilized jelly glasses. This makes a delightful jelly.

Spiced Current

A good relish to serve with meat. Wash thoroughly and stem three pounds of ripe currents. Put in the preserving kettle, add 2-3 lbs. of brown sugar and one cupful of vinegar. Tie in a piece of muslin 2 tablespoonful each of cinnamon and ground cloves. Add these spices and cook slowly for an hour. Place in hot glass jars. This makes a delicious relish to serve with meat.

Thomas Ben Capel is on a vacation here. Only one marriage license was issued in this county during June and the marriage was performed in Elwood.

REMINISCENCE OF THE COVERED WAGON

The following is a sale bill taken from Anderson Kentucky News 1849. As indicated by this bill "times have changed." Those people who saw the play in Rushville last spring marveled at the number of articles these pioneer families attempted to take with them, but it is in all probability more significant to history to know some of the things they left behind.

SALE BILL

"Having sold my farm (I am leaving for Oregon Territory by ox team) I will offer on March 1, 1849, all of my personal property, to-wit: All ox teams except 2 teams, Buck and Ben and Tom and Jerry; 2 milk cows, 1 gray mare and colt; 1 pair of oxen and yoke; 1 baby yoke; 2 ox ears; 1 iron foot of poplar weather boards; plow with wood mould board, 200 to 3,000 three foot clap boards, 1,500 10-foot fence rails; 1 60-gallon soap kettle; 85 sugar troughs made of white ash timber; 10 gallons of maple syrup; 2 spinning wheels; 30 pounds of mutton tallow; 1 large loom made by Jerry Wilson; 300 poles; 100 split hoops; 100 empty barrels; 1 32-gallon barrel of Johnson Miller whiskey, 7 years old; 20 gallons of apple brandy; 1 40-gallon copper still of oak tanned leather; 2 scythes and cradles; 1 dozen wooden pitchforks; one-half interest in ten yards; 1 32-calibre rifle; bullet mould and powder horn; rifle made by Ben Miller; 60 gallons of soft soap; hams, bacon and lard; 40 gallons of sorghum molasses; 6 fox hounds, all soft-mouled except one. At the same time I will sell my 6 negro slaves—2 men, 35 and 50 years old; 2 boys 12 and 18 years old; 2 mulatto women, 40 and 30 years old. Will sell all together to the same party, as I will not separate them.

"Terms of sale: cash in hand, or note to draw 4 percent interest with Bob McConnell as surety. My home is 2 miles south of Versailles, Ky., on the McCormick ferry pike. Sale begins at 8 o'clock a. m. Plenty to drink and eat."

INCREASED DEATH RATE IS REPORTED

Changing Modes of Living are Reflected in Causes of Death in Indiana From Heart Disease

CANCER RATE IS ALARMING

Advent of Automobiles has Greatly Increased Toll of Deaths From Accidents, Report States

Indianapolis, Ind., July 23—Changing modes of living have reflected in the causes of death in Indiana as set out in a report by the state board of health today.

The report makes a comparison in the death rates from various causes in 1924 with the rates for 1900. It also makes a comparison between the first six months of 1924 with the same period last year.

Among the causes of death which claimed a higher percentage of victims in 1923 than in 1900 are cancer, influenza, organic heart disease and apoplexy and automobile and railroad accidents. The death rates from suicide and homicide also increased.

According to the report, the increase in the deaths from cancer is alarming. In 1900, the rate was 38 to every 100,000 population and in 1923 it has jumped to 100.07. During the six months ending with June of this year this disease claimed 1348 victims is a slight decrease from 1405 during the same period in 1923.

Partly compensating for the alarming increase in cancer deaths is the fact that the death rate for tuberculosis was nearly halved between 1900 and 1923, or from 175.8 to 94.7. In the past six months this disease claimed 1325 as compared with 1486 who died during the same period last year. The lowering of the death rate is attributed partly to the fact that people are learning how to take care of themselves to ward off the disease, according to health board officials.

The high speed of present-day living was blamed as one of the causes of the increase in the death rate from organic heart disease from 61.3 in 1900 to 174.4 in 1923. This disease claimed 1483 in the first six months of this year.

The advent of the automobile has greatly increased the toll of deaths from accidents, according to the report. The annual death rate was more than doubled from 1917 when 208 persons were killed in automobile accidents to 1923 when 533 were killed. The period of this year most fatal to automobile accident victims is just beginning, according to the health board's report. Only 183 persons were killed during the first six months of this year.

The first half of this year was especially fatal to those who rode on steam and electric railroads. For, during that period, the report said, 161 persons lost their lives in accidents that occurred on them.

Streams and lakes are just beginning to harvest their toll of drownings for this year, the report said. Sixty-five have been drowned in Indiana so far this year as compared with 147 during the first six months in 1923. Thirty of the sixty-five victims this year were claimed during June.

The total death rate from all causes in Indiana during the first six months of this year was 13.4 as compared with 14.5 for the same period in 1923, according to the report.

EASY INSURANCE CAUSE OF FIRES

Great Number of Incendiary Fires in State is Blamed on Lack of Restrictions

SOME LAY ELABORATE PLANS

Some Men Even Go as Far as to Singe Their Hair or Whiskers or go Out of City

Indianapolis, Ind., July 23—Easy in getting large amounts of insurance on property and the depression of business were said today to be the contributing causes of a great number of incendiary fires in Indiana recently, by G. L. Pugh, chief investigator for the state fire marshal.

Incendiaries have about a fifty-fifty chance to escape the law, he said, about one-half of those arrested are convicted. Nearly all of the convictions must be made on circumstantial evidence and it takes a great amount of skill to weave the web of circumstance close enough to entangle the suspect.

"In many of the cases the person that is responsible for an arson fire is out of the city at the time of the fire and pretends to know nothing of it until someone notifies him," Pugh said in extolling some of his troubles in getting convictions.

"In one case, a man told authorities that the night before his house burned he was out of town and his wife had a dream that the fire had occurred. He said he knew nothing of the fire until someone from home had notified him.

"Some incendiaries lay elaborate plans for their work. They even go as far as to singe their hair or whiskers. Sometimes they set their home on fire and then go to bed and pretend to be asleep when the firemen arrive or stay until the fire forces them to leave."

A Russian Jew who was a suspect had half of his whiskers singed off, Pugh said. Another suspect had his eyebrows singed.

Pugh told of a woman who had barely escaped getting burned to death when she rushed out of the bed where she pretended to be asleep through two rooms, blazing with kerosene-soaked furniture and into the street. She had her night-gown on but underneath her nightgown, she

PROTEST BOBBED MONOPOLY

This may look funny to you, but it's a profound problem to them. It's getting so a man can hardly get a seat in a barber shop any more, thanks to the bobbed hair monopoly. This being the case a "bald-headed club" has been formed at Frankfort, Pa., and members have their heads shaved so that there will be a longer interval between hair cuts.

Frankfort—When Otto Hughes' mother said he could not have the car and took off the license plates, Frankfort police arrested him and he was fined $35.

The only Creator:—In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. All things were made by him; and without him was not anything made that was made. —John 1: 1, 3.

Prayer:—Most Holy One, we thank Thee for the knowledge that all things were made by Thee, but above all we rejoice that Thou art our only Redeemer, and that in Thee all things are for us recreated anew.

Workers

Critics of men in the public eye may condemn them unmercifully, but they generally come around to the same terminal every time—that the men in question are great workers.

The history of the lives of all outstanding men reveals their devotion to work. They become masters of their job first by work and then become masters of men.

When you think of oil, you think of Rockefeller. When you think of the telephone, you immediately think of Bell. When you think of the automobile, you immediately think of Ford, and when you think of electricity, the name of Edison comes to your lips.

The electrical wizard is the greatest living exponent of work. It is said of him that he once instructed his secretary to notify a man seeking an appointment, that he should come at twelve o'clock. It was twenty minutes to twelve when the telephone message was received.

The man asking an audience replied that he could not reach Edison's office by noon and the secretary informed him that the appointment was for midnight. Mr. Edison's caller found him listening to some music on the piano. At five minutes before twelve he dismissed the pianist and sat down to lunch with his caller to transact the business at hand.

It is said that Edison has gone two

One Friend Tells Another

The fame of a successful remedy is often spread far and wide by women telling one another of its merits, as is evidenced by a letter written by Mrs. Delbert Bush of Massena, N. Y. She writes: "I was in such a bad condition I could hardly walk, a friend who had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound with excellent results advised me to try it. It has given me back my health and I cannot praise it enough." There are women everywhere who have been benefited by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and gladly tell their friends and neighbors about it.

or three days at a time without changing his clothes or going home, even though his home is but a short distance from the laboratory.

This prodigious industry is rare in men, but even in a lesser degree, it is a very important part of achieving results.

No man can master his own business or profession without work. It is only by work that he can study his business and become skilled in it, and not until he is a student and is skilled, can he become a master of himself and his undertaking in life.

Leaders of men are always workers else they would not be leaders.

An Academic Discussion

There is much controversy between Great Britain and France over the powers to be exercised by the proposed American member of the reparations commission. The discussion is of slight interest to this government, because there will never be an American member of the commission who will in any sense speak for the United States. It may be that an American will be invited to become a member of the commission, but he will act only in his individual capacity, just as Gen. Dawes and Mr. Young acted on the international committee that conceived the Dawes plan.

There is no policy of our international relations more firmly fixed than that of non-entanglement in the problems of Europe. The United States can never accept the responsibility that would go with an official representative on the reparations commission. We will continue to look after our own affairs.

HUNT'S DAILY LETTER

BY HARRY B. HUNT

NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON—Jud Welliver, ex-newspaper man, now chief clerk at the White House, has been giving considerable thought of late to analyzing, or trying to analyze, that political enigma, his boss, Calvin Coolidge.

Perhaps it is injudicious of us to tip Cal off to the fact that Jud has been dissecting him, metaphorically speaking. Maybe Cal doesn't like to be dissected.

Maybe his New England conscience will lead him to demand that Jud put in his time looking after the affairs of his job as chief clerk, not in trying to figure out how the wheels go round in the president's mental mechanism.

Still, since Cal is a candidate and Jud's analysis is a favorable one, we guess he won't fire Jud, so here goes:

THE president, Welliver says, after 10 months of close observation, does two things superlatively well. They are:

1. Listening.

2. Thinking.

Taking up these two matters in more detail, Welliver finds that though he is an expert listener the president is discriminating in his listening. In other words, unless a thing is worth listening to he doesn't listen to it.

He may appear to be listening, but the sound waves vibrating against his ear drums will not be registering on his consciousness.

On these occasions, though he may look like he's listening, he's really thinking. Welliver holds. Just what he thinks at such times, Welliver doesn't say—maybe it wouldn't look well in print—but from the way the condition is described it seems that the president just twists his mental dial and tunes out the speaker on such occasions.

The conversation continues, but it doesn't register. And meantime the presidential mind is busy with something of real importance.

RUNNING close in importance to his listening and thinking ability, is the president's unhurried, methodical, rather plodding approach to the vast mass of routine labor his office entails.

He wastes neither energy nor time in flourishes or furbelows. What he needs to know about a matter he finds out by direct, incisive methods that neither invite nor admit the intrusion of irrelevant matter.

With these facts in the mental hopper, the answer comes out with mathematical precision and exactness, Welliver finds. It is like pulling the lever for a total on an adding machine.

If all the factors have been correctly entered, there can be no more mistake in the Coolidge answer, he holds, than in the mathematically exact, mechanical total of your cash register. For both are the result of simple but exact principles undeviatingly applied.

In his decisions as in his thinking and his speech, Welliver finds, there is no lost motion, no superfluous maneuvering. The result is a definiteness and clarity as to the executive attitude on public matters that has not been equaled—well, at least not since Welliver began analyzing presidents.

THAT recently popular "slang" phrase, "the cat's meow," has taken on new significance in Washington circles since members of the Washington vice squad, by imitating the softly-purred call of a lonely feline, obtained access the other night to the apartment of a lady, formerly of the "official" set, where a riotous liquor party was in progress.

Now wherever "Sergeant" McQuade, who "putted" the house, goes, a medley of caterwauls follows in his wake.

'One drawback to living at home is you can't throw your cigar ashes on the floor in the lobby.'

A family at odds soon comes to odds and ends.

MOVIES

"Omar, the Tentmaker" which is scheduled to start a two day engagement at the Castle theatre today, has been hailed as the screen's most colorful offering. Guy Bates Post is the star of the picture, which was produced by Richard Walton Tally and is being released as a First National attraction.

Here are some of the artistic settings it contains:

A rose garden, with fountains splashing in the silvery moonlight—a poetic youth and a beautiful maid! The streets of golden Naishapur, bustling with pilgrims, natives, vendors of everything imaginable, caravans of camels, hands of Bedouins on Arabian steeds—and beggars! A tavern, with bibulous youths roistering in the immemorial manner! The mystic Temple of Zoroaster, its altar looming up in the semi-darkness of the interior, its minarets where the muzzins chant their call to prayer! The gardens of the Governor, with slaves who carry out his slightest wish, for his wish is law! The dungeon cells—"the home of ten thousand shadows"—in which the doomed await their execution, or the far greater dread of torture! The potter's shop, emblematic of the seat of the Maker of Mankind, and the clay on the wheel as the clay in His hands! The halls of the mighty Shah of Shahs, whose wealth can buy for his feeble senility even the fairest flower of all Persia! The study of the philosopher-poet, Omar, the Tentmaker, son of an artisan father, whose manifold talents compose the eternally beloved scientific calendar—a room where scrolls of verses mingle with astronomical instruments.

Gloria Swanson at Princess

Gloria Swanson wears a glittering array of new gowns in "A Society Scandal," her new Paramount production, which is receiving its first local showing at the Princess theatre today. But the fires of acting genius that were lighted by this star in "Zaza" and "The Humming Bird" are still flaring brightly. So while Miss Swanson offers an even more enticing fashion show than she ever did in her former "gown pictures," she also reminds us that she is a lady of outstanding dramatic and emotional talents besides. The combination is "delightful."

"A Society Scandal" was adapted by Forrest Halsey, who also made the remarkably skillful scenario of "The Humming Bird" from Alfred Sautro's play, "The Laughing Lady" in which Ethel Barrymore starred on the New York stage. Mr. Halsey has taken several liberties with the polished Mr. Sautro's manuscript, but we firmly believe, all are the best.

Miss Swanson has the role of a society beauty, who, involved innocently in a compromising situation with a rotter, is sued for divorce by her weakling husband. On the stand her husband's lawyer, a handsome, young, and over-zealous attorney, tears her reputation to shreds. Whereupon it becomes the fair divorcee's chief aim in life to humiliate the lawyer in some way for the ruin he has wrought upon her socially. The poignant manner in which she accomplishes her purpose and the surprising result are pictured in a most engrossing manner.

IS COMING HOME TO ACT AS COACH

Everett S. Dean, Indiana Alumnus, is Named Head Baseball and Basketball Coach

TO SUCCEED LESLIE MANN

Graduate of I. U. Has Been Building Teams in Mid-West Conference at Carleton

Bloomington, Ind., July 23—Everett S. Dean, all-conference center at Indiana university in 1920 and 1921 and for the past three years head coach of baseball and basketball and assistant football coach at Carleton college, has been named head baseball and basketball coach at Indiana university to succeed Leslie Mann.

The selection of Dean was announced by the athletic committee after consideration of a large field of material and upon the recommendation of Athletic Director Zora G. Clevenger. Dean returns to his alma mater after producing at Carleton college during the past season the baseball and basketball championship teams of the mid-west conference, which is made up of leading colleges from Iowa, Wisconsin, Illinois and Minnesota.

The new Indiana coach has been serving as instructor in the Indiana summer coaching school. As star athlete and captain at Indiana and as coach, he has demonstrated that he knows how to handle men. The fact that he proved a star in play and that he produced winning teams after leaving the university satisfied the Indiana athletic committee that he knows and can teach both basketball and baseball and is a worthy successor to Coach Mann who recently turned in his resignation.

Upon leaving Indiana in 1921 Dean went to Carleton college and began building basketball and baseball teams. In 1922 his basketball team lost only one game in the mid-west conference and in 1923 only two games. Both years Carleton finished second in the conference. Last year Dean took his basketball quintet to the top of the ladder and won both the mid-west and the Minnesota state college championships. Dean's basketball team developed in the same progressive way, winning second place in the mid-west conference in 1922 and 1923 and first place last year.

It is understood that Dean will take up his new duties at the opening of the university next fall and that he probably will be on the football coaching staff.

KEEPING ONE EYE ON THE SCOREBOARD

Yesterday's Hero—"Gaby" Hartnett, young Cub catcher, who cracked out a brace of homers, the second day he has done so this week.

Ty Cobb's Tigers took the Yankees in their own stadium and shook them out of first place, Pennock and Wells engaging in a pitching duel which ended in the latter's favor 3 to 1. Detroit now is leading the league.

The Senators broke even with the White Sox in a double bill losing the first 4 to 0 and winning the second 4 to 1.

The Giants slaughtered three Red twirlers, making 17 hits and piling up such a lead that a ninth inning rally by the home team failed to have any effect. New York winning 9 to 4.

After losing nine straight games the Red Sox turned on the Indians and won an 11 inning game 4 to 3.

The Cubs and Braves divided a double bill, McNamara only have the home team turn upon the visitors and take the second 8 to 1.

The Browns drove Hasty from the mound and beat the Athletics 5 to 3.

The Phils came from behind to take the Cards into camp 5 to 2.

A game cut short by rain in the sixth was won by the Dodgers, 4 to 1, taking third place from the Pirates.

To win the welterweight title from Walker, Leonard will have to score a knockout. No official decision will be given.

Here's a rich one—George Connolly of the White Sox is one of the most promising young pitchers in the big leagues today. For him the future seems to hold much in the way of fame and fortune. But George Connolly doesn't want to stay in the big leagues. "I want to go back to Texas and play in the minors where the fans all call you by your first name," he pleads. "I used to be a big hero in Galveston, but nobody seems to know I exist in Chicago."

THIRTY-TWO GOLFERS IN THE OPENING ROUND

Western Amateur Golf Championship Stars off Today at Hinsdale Country Club

EVANS PRESENT TITLEHOLDER

Chicago July 23—Thirty-two golfers, survivors of the qualifying round of the western amateur golf championship, started off today on the opening round of match play at the Hinsdale Country Club here.

Arthur R. Sweet, of the Edgewood Club, Chicago, won medal honors with a score of 72-69-141. Par for the course was 72.

Jimmy Munton, St. Louis, Frank Dwyer, Memphis and Rudy Knepper, Chicago, tied for second place with scores of 143.

Chick Evans, present titleholder, who was automatically qualified, drew the starting position today—paired with Bob White, a Chicago youngster. This pair will get away at 9 o'clock. Sweet and Eddie Held, St. Louis, will tee off five minutes later.

HERO OF HITLESS GAME

The first hitless game of the big league season goes to the credit of Jesse Haines of the St. Louis Cardinals, who turned in a pitching classic against the Boston Braves, scoring a 5-0 victory. Haines walked one batter in the first, and two in the sixth. These were the only men to reach first base. No Cardinal player was charged with an error and not one hard chance was fired at any fielder during the game.

ATHLETES STANDING OUT IN THE OLYMPICS

III.—Jackson V. Scholz By FRANK GETTY (U. P. Staff Correspondent)

New York, July 23—A victory without which the Olympic Games of 1924 would not have been complete, at least from the American point of view, was that of Jackson V. Scholz, former Missouri University star, now of the New York Athletic Club, in the 200 metre dash.

Jack Scholz was the famous "comeback" of the Olympiad.

After Antwerp, in which he represented the United States in the dashes but failed to distinguish himself, Scholz was thought to have hung up his spiked shoes for good. Jack thought so himself, as a couple of springs drifted by and the call of the cinders came more faintly each year.

Last winter, however, running in the colors of the New York A. C., Scholz trained for and entered the indoor meets around this city. He captured the Metropolitan 70-yard championship, but otherwise was consistently beaten by Loren Murchison and "Boots" Lever. On his showing on the boards, none of the critics picked Jack for Olympic glory.

With the approach of the outdoor season, however, Scholz who had little to occupy his time except his work as a short-story writer, got down to hard training. One day we got a tip that the veteran had torn off a practice "hundred" in 10 3-5 seconds.

When the sectional Olympic trials were held here, Scholz surprised many by winning the 100 metres, beating Murchison and Frank Hussey in record time.

Then came the final tryouts at Cambridge, which brought together the cream of the country's sprinters, with Jack Scholz, at 27, the "old man," the "veteran" who is trying to come back.

Anyway, Jack did, and he came back so fast that nobody could keep up with him. He equaled the Olympic record in the 200 metres, then broke it; equaled the world's record, and then smashed that. He was second to Chet Bowman in a 100 he might have won, and was easily the best at 200 metres.

Scholz's performances, overshadowing all others at Cambridge, made him, perhaps, the outstanding figure of our team at Paris, and he was picked by the American coaches as a likely winner of both the dashes.

In the 100 metres at Colombes Stadium came the upset in which the rangy English Jew, Abrahams, proved himself Scholz's master at the shorter distance and ran away with first place, the N. Y. A. C. flyer taking second.

It was then decidedly up to Jack to make good in the 200 metres, the distance at which he is best, and at which no faster man ever essayed.

The triumph of the "come-back" was complete. It was not a hollow victory that he won that boiling summer's day, for it was only by a characteristic twist of his shoulder as he and Charley Paddock lunged themselves at the line that it was Scholz who broke the tape. But he won, making a total of 15 points he had contributed to America's column, and he had the satisfaction of showing up Abrahams, who finished a poor last.

Abrahams still is the better man at the 100 metres or 100 yards. He is the perfect running machine. But it takes "guts" for fuel when a running-machine must cover the furlong, and Scholz had them.

NEED OF CHANGE IN CONSTITUTION

Amendment to Make it More Difficult For Supreme Court to Decide on Laws, is Predicted

PRELIMINARY PLAN MADE

Proposes to Require Unanimous Decision by the Court to Declare State Laws Illegal

Indianapolis, Ind., July 23—Amendment of the state constitution to make it more difficult for the Indiana Supreme court to declare laws passed by the state legislature unconstitutional was seen as an advisable step today by Charles Kettleborough, head of the state legislative reference bureau.

Kettleborough is a widely known authority on legislative procedure and has charge of drafting and redrafting of all bills presented for legislative enactment in Indiana.

The constitution should be amended, he said to require unanimous decision by the court in declaring a law unconstitutional. It now permits a decision by only a majority. He sighted an opinion of the former Justice Clark of the United States Supreme court who has stated that, if a presumption should exist in the mind of any member of the court that a law should not be declared unconstitutional the law should remain in effect. A dissenting opinion by any member of the court should be sufficient presumption he said.

Kettleborough declared that the standard of the personal of courts all over the country should be raised to keep in step with the progress of industry and business. It was his opinion that this could be accomplished by raising the salaries of judges and lengthening their terms.

The salaries of $7,500 paid Supreme court judges in Indiana are too low he said, and should be increased to at least $10,000. A bill presented in the last legislature to increase their salaries failed to pass.

No bills have been for drafting by the bureau so far, Kettleborough said. Political activities is excluding any thought of the legislature. The flood

"WHITE INDIANS" REACH U. S.

Out of the jungle depths of the "forbidden country" in the Panama interior Richard O. Marsh, explorer, has brought for the observation of science three "white Indians." They are children of the much-discussed tribe which explorers have for generations attempted to reach and a score of lives have been lost in the effort. The "white Indian" youngsters have been named Margaret and Alo and Chepu. Just behind them is Marsh who brought them to New York where eminent scientists will seek to learn whether they are really "white Indians" or Albinos.

The county corn production last year was 3,662,000 bushels. It is easy to compute what a few cents on the bushel more will mean to Rush county.

Arkansas Lady Says Mother Gave Her Cardui and She Had No More Trouble of This Kind.

Lamar, Ark.—Mrs. Edith Seeman, here, recently made the following statement describing her experience in the use of Cardui:

"I had pain in my back and sides; had sick headaches and my nose would bleed. I couldn't sit up at all.

"My mother gave me Cardui. I took about a half bottle and at this . . . I was able to get up and help with the work. Next time I took it again, and now, after taking two bottles, I do not have any trouble at all at this time. I gained, my skin cleared up, I am healthy and strong.

"My mother took Cardui for a week, run-down condition. It did her more good for weakness and nervousness than any medicine she has ever taken. She took six bottles in all. We recommend it and certainly know its worth."

The foregoing is one out of thousands of statements which have been received from users of Cardui, the woman's tonic. If you are a sufferer from womanly ailments, try Cardui. It may be just what you need. At your dealer's. NC-155
